

ROBERT MAYER

84 Plains Road Jericho, VT 05465
(802) 899-4088
(802) 951-5956 (office)
mayer@champlain.edu

ACADEMIC EXPERIENCE

Assistant Professor, Core Division, Champlain College (present)

Core Development Team, responsible for developing four-year general education curriculum. Teach Core, History, and e-Gaming courses.

Extensive curriculum development and documentation, Global Modules operations and development.

Full-Time Faculty Associate, Champlain College (2004-2007)

Teach US, World History, Electronic Game Design.

Extensive curriculum development and documentation, Core Curriculum writing team, Global Modules development.

Adjunct Instructor, Champlain College (2000-2004)

Taught US and World History.

Extensive curriculum development and documentation.

Instructor, University of Georgia

(1995-97)

Taught full range of US and European history classes.

Supported department's PC operations.

Postdoctoral Fellow, NHPRC, University of Tennessee (1994-95)

Analyzed, processed, edited, and prepared for publication the correspondence of President James K. Polk.

BUSINESS EXPERIENCE

Freelance Writer/Consultant

(1993-Present)

Specializing in promotional, informational, educational and journalistic writing to spec. Current clients include major educational and entertainment software companies. Work includes press kits, public relations, product descriptions, operational examples, interviews, design documents, and reviews.

Managing & Reviews Editor, Computer Games Magazine and Computer Games Online (www.cgonline.com)

(1997-June 2002)

Managed staff of editors and writers creating daily and monthly content.

Wrote articles, ad copy, marketing documents, and business plans.

Worked with remote editors, writers, and press representatives.

Systems Analyst, Titan Applications Inc., Vienna, VA, (1986-1990)

Developed and presented training courses in scientific and technical fields.

Wrote user manuals for VAX/VMS based and ORACLE systems.

Managed overseas computer operation in Germany.

Research Analyst, Presearch Inc., Fairfax, VA, (1984-1986)

Extensive experience in document editing and production.

Worked extensively with technology transfer and industrial intelligence issues.

Operated and developed operators manual for database of international technology transfer information.

EDUCATION

Ph.D., History, University of Georgia (1994), with a dissertation on magazine advertising

MA, Foreign Affairs, University of Virginia (1984), specializing in Middle Eastern studies

BA, University of Georgia (1982), with extensive coursework in literature

SKILLS

Excellent written and oral communication abilities.

Excellent management and teamwork skills.

Excellent analytical and assessment abilities.

Extensive experience with curriculum development and design

Experienced in using the Internet for teaching and communication.

Extensive experience working with computers and high-tech equipment.

CONFERENCES

Co-wrote and will be co-presenting on general education development at the 2008 AAC&U Conference in Washington, DC.

Paper developed and approved for 2007 IMCL conference in Amman, Jordan (scheduled presentation pre-empted by arrival of the king).

REFERENCES

On request.