“Our goal is to help students start thinking about college earlier. Help them figure out what their majors should be and what they will be good at. We also want to help them navigate the college process, and help them see that college can be fun.

---- Ame Lambert, Chief Diversity Officer, Office of Diversity and Inclusion at Champlain College.

Champlain College aims to come alongside P-12, after school community programs, and College preparatory programs to help students:

- Develop a vision for college
- Build social and emotional and competencies
- Strengthen math, science, technology and writing skills

We are committed to helping students learn tips and tools to help them navigate the college entry process.
